Resident Energy Conservation Program (RECP)

Property Training – Program Overview
August 2013

SIM

Resident Energy Conservation Program (RECP)

An OSD memorandum dated September 8, 1998 set forth a policy for the payment of utilities in privatized housing and strive to achieve energy efficiency in privatized homes. The program is mandated by the Department of Defense and congressionally supported.

- Residents are responsible for paying their utility costs that are above their Monthly Utility Usage Target.
- Residents consuming a normal level of energy for their residences will incur no out-of-pocket monthly cost.
- Residents consuming below their Monthly Utility Usage Target will receive a refund.

This is not a Lend Lease or an Island Palms Communities policy.

IMCOM
SOLDIERS • FAMILIES • CIVILIANS

SIM

Purpose of the Program

- Compliance with OSD mandated program.
- Conservation decreases the national dependence on foreign oil and conforms to our national policies.

Why Conserve?

- Residents typically consume more energy when not responsible for utilities (included in rent.)
- Studies show that when residents are responsible for the utilities they consume, usage drops 18-30%.
- Those who conserve will be financially rewarded.
- Savings in energy costs will go to residents by providing improved housing and ancillary facilities.

Utility Baseline Groups

- Homes are placed into a “like type” utility baseline groups:
 - Neighborhood
 - Square Footage
 - Number of Bedrooms
 - Year Built
 - Type of Construction
- Comparable home utility performance.
- Measured consumption will be used to establish a separate Monthly Utility Usage Target for each baseline group every billing cycle .
- Accounts for weather.
- Only similar homes will have the same Monthly Utility Usage Target.

Calculation

- Actual monthly utility consumption is captured.
- Average consumption is calculated monthly by group

Removed (only from average calculation):

- Remove top & bottom 5% of high/low users
- Unoccupied or partially occupied (move ins & outs) do not impact the average
- Remove homes with zero consumption
- Calculate average of current utility consumption

Although they do not effect the average, the above still receive consumption statements

- This is the Monthly Utility Usage Target
- Average consumption is multiplied by the current rate.
- A 10% buffer is set above and below the Monthly Utility Usage Target

IMCOM

Billing Cycle

- Minol will mail a monthly statement reflecting the resident's energy usage in comparison to the Monthly Utility Usage Target.
- Residents consuming below the Monthly Utility Usage Target and below the 10% buffer = REBATE.
- Resident consuming above the Monthly Utility Usage Target and above the 10% buffer = CHARGE (out of pocket).
- Action trigger of $50.00
 - Resident does not pay nor receives a rebate until the trigger amount is reached.
 - Trigger amount is an accrual and will roll over each month until amount is reached.

Energy Use in the Home

Vampire Electricity

A large number of electrical products—TVs, microwave ovens, computers, monitors and phone chargers —cannot be switched off completely without being unplugged.

These products draw power 24 hours a day, often without the knowledge of the consumer. We call this power consumption “standby power.”

A typical American home has forty products constantly drawing power. Together these amount to almost 10% to 20% of residential electricity use.

Vampire Electric is estimated to cost US consumers $3 billion a year.

Smart Strip

The Smart Strip monitors power consumption and can sense the difference between when computers and other devices are on or off. Upon figuring this out, its auto-switching technology automatically shuts down devices that are not in use, eliminating the idle current drawn from them.

A Smart Strip normally pays for itself in as little as six weeks.
